that. I try to be open minded though, so I just need to see what happens if/when they do put in another vote, but I have my money on this. I imagine we'll see the next vote last 3-4 days, maybe the next day after that. Oh, I was wrong about the vote date. Turns out it's the 19th. I really hope they don't use the "two votes per person" thing. Anyone who votes for one person, should not be able to vote for another person. This is how loot rolls now. When you roll for 2 or more stuff, you lose that chance at something. Same if you have 2 votes and decide to roll twice, with only 1 roll available, you lose all chances to roll because people chose different things. I dont want people to get some item in a loot roll for 2 more hours, only for 5 of them to roll the same item. Please no more people rolling the same items.

@Harley: @Eddytick *ehem* I was keeping an eye on @gamansa, and you were both on the watch list before that. And if I would have known you were in the first spot, I would have voted you first, but I was not

How to Handle Spam on Gmail How to Handle Spam on Gmail If you had a Gmail account before you started using the popular Gmail webmail service, you may be familiar with the canned response that you can send to certain recipients in an email. You're probably seeing this already: The canned response tells recipients that you're the spammer if you have to send an email in order to receive responses or if your email account has been flagged for "spamming". Since the popularity of Gmail is so great today, an overwhelming majority of your email will be from accounts that have been flagged as spam. You can't seem to figure out what

The present study was conducted to assess the rational use of ciprofloxacin (CIP) and norfloxacin (NOR) in patients with acute febrile illnesses and to establish the adverse reactions to the two drugs. A total of 500 patients suspected of having acute febrile illness were enrolled in the study. They were given CIP and NOR according to the general rules for the treatment of fever. The causative microorganisms were identified using Gram's stain and standard laboratory procedures. The statistical analysis was performed using SPSS 10.01 for Windows. Of the 500 patients examined, the causative microorganisms in 420 (84%) were identified. The most common isolates were Escherichia coli (16.4%), Klebsiella pneumoniae (14.4%), and Streptococcus pyogenes (11.6%). The resistance of these pathogens to CIP was 7.7% and to NOR, 3.9%. In this study, CIP and NOR were mostly effective in the treatment of patients with acute febrile illness. The fever subsided in 73.1% and 74.5% of cases, respectively. The use of CIP should be restricted to patients with infection of Gram-positive microorganisms, and NOR should be used to treat infections caused by Gram-negative microorganisms in patients who are unable to tolerate CIP.

Q: How can you display the correct amount of for a crafty component? In a crafty component, e.g. a hidden template (unrelated to any other crafty component), how can you make sure that you view the correct amount of tags, in regards to crafty's default amount of per line? To be more specific: In a hidden template I have a basic input field with a label. The label contains some text. But the
